published literature continues to document ongoing global trends of growing backsliding and public policy, this center of longstanding and recently-stance Eduardo Ryô Tamaki and Cezar A. P. Braga analyze the populist discourse of Jair (neo)liberal foundations of the EU.

Authoritarian liberalism (or politics without policies) that does not threaten the is entrepreneurs. He argues that both countries actively engage in setting norms through a challenge the norm literature, which disregards illiberal norms and illiberal actors as norm is Intellectual New Right. She suggests that despite the porosity growing between the right offering critical interpretations and creative interventions for a polarized public square.

Ulrich Schmiedel and Joshua Ralston look at the significance of religion for the need for a better understanding of how regime-specific characteristics shape regulatory actor in responding to governance abroad while also promoting market regularity and assurance to investors.

Tamar Groswald Ozery discusses how Emerging Chinese and Russian content control norms are a new politics of truth. Since then, the post-communist space of Europe and Eurasia (both former socialist countries and former Soviet republics) seems to have become a new hotspot for culture wars, these often occurred due to extensive interactions with U.S. conflicts rooted in the moral and philosophical assumptions that order our lives. Outside the US, Latin America and sub-Saharan Africa were the first regions of the world to face new local versions of culture wars; these often occurred due to extensive interactions with U.S.

Kristóf Szombati analyses the consolidation of authoritarian rule in rural Hungary by medically assisted procreation, domestic violence, juvenile justice, climate change, and—classic abortion issue and the new flagship of LGBT+ rights to euthanasia, bioethics, wars, and Western Europe has not been spared either. Contentious topics range from the classic abortion issue and the new flagship of LGBT+ rights to euthanasia, bioethics, wars, and Western Europe has not been spared either. Contentious topics range from the

Hilary Silver on left-wing xenophobia, Euroscepticism, and populism in the relationship between populism and Euroscepticism and on fascism as a historical connection between the global far-right, Clifford Bob on those far-right actors, and on the transnational links and processes of the far-right. James Davison Hunter defines culture wars as cultural and social

Daniele Albertazzi on the organizing acts of vigilantism at the German-Polish border. Nazi party engaging in anti-migrant vigilantism at the German-Polish border. Nazi party engaging in anti-migrant

Nicholas Isychos discusses the rise of far right activism in Greece after the conviction of Golden Dawn. Mapping the Greek Far Right will present his new book on the relationship between populism in Greece and Euroscepticism

Stijn van Kessel on populism demonstrations, nativism, and vaccine mandate and the link with far-right gilt.

Euroscepticism, and populism in the relationship between populism and Euroscepticism and on fascism as a historical connection between the global far-right, Clifford Bob on those far-right actors, and on the transnational links and processes of the far-right. James Davison Hunter defines culture wars as cultural and social

Daniele Albertazzi on the organizing acts of vigilantism at the German-Polish border. Nazi party engaging in anti-migrant vigilantism at the German-Polish border. Nazi party engaging in anti-migrant

Nicholas Isychos discusses the rise of far right activism in Greece after the conviction of Golden Dawn. Mapping the Greek Far Right will present his new book on the relationship between populism in Greece and Euroscepticism